STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The Electropathy/Electro-homoeopathy Medical Science is harmless, natural and is a new system of medicine. This system is quite different from Allopathy, Ayurveda, Unani and Homoeopathic systems. This new Pathy was discovered in 1865 by Dr. Count Ceaser Mattie of Italy on the basic principles of 'COMPLEXA COMPLEXIS CURANTURE'. The remedies of Electropathy are prepared by a scientific process called the 'Spageric Way' commonly known as 'COHOBATION' method in which the living energies of the plant remain in the essences obtained from the plants. These remedies have curative capacity to regulate the lyraph and blood and also to keep them purified. Only non-poisonous medicinal plants are used for preparing medicines under this system. Alcohol or Spirit or other poisonous matter is not used in the preparation of these medicines. Hence there are no side effects on the human body. Any discomfore can be easily and quickly controlled. These medicines are cheap and harmless.

In India there are four recognised systems of medical sciences viz. Allopathy, Ayurveda, Unani and Homoeopathy. The Allopathy system of medicine was recognised in India under Indian Medical Degrees Act, 1916. Prior to that even this system was not officially recognised in India but the doctors of this pathy were practising without any restriction. In the In-Degrees Act, 1916, the three systems of medicines viz. Ayurveda, Unani and Homoeopathy not given recognition. The Ayurveda and Unani systems of Medicines were later recognised under the Indian Medical Council Act, 1956. The fourth medical science i.e. Homoeopathy, was introduced in India in the year 1839. In the year 1937 a Private Member's Bill was brought forward in the Assembly for the recognition of Homoeopathy. An Inquiry Committee on Homoeopathy was set up in the year 1947 on the basis of the above Bill and Homoeopathy as a medical science was subsequently recognised in India. Thus, at present, there are four systems of medical science recognised in India. It may be mentioned that before the recognition of these four systems of medical science in India, the doctors of these pathies were practising in their respective medical field and there was no bar on their practice.

The Board of Naturo Electro Homoeopathy Medicos of India (N.E.H.M. of India), New Delhi, which has been working for the last ten years is a registered body under the Societies Act, 1860. Its working is controlled and superivsed by a Committee constituted for the purpose. In the year 1988 the N.E.H.M. of India. New Delhi and fifty one Members of Parliament requested the Union Health Minister for the constitution of an Inquiry Committee on Electropathy. This Committee was constituted on 1 September 1988 and it submitted its report in December, 1990. In order to examine its report, an Expert Committee on Electropathy was appointed by the Government. The Government received report of this Committee on 27 August 1991. In the meantime, at the Instance of the Prime Minister of India, the Health Minister observed the working and activities of the N.E.H.M. of India, New Delni large number of Homoeopathic practicioners who were practising and there upon he categorically stated that N.E.H.M. of India is the only organisation which is serving the cause of Electropathy all over India. The Hon'ble Minister also authorised the N.E.H.M. of India for the promotion, development and research of Electropathy/Electrohomoeopathy in India. The Ministry of Health and Family Welfare also admitted that before Homoeopathy, as a system of medicine, was recognised, there was good number of Homoeopathic Institutions and a large number of Homoeopathic practictioners who were practising without Government recognition. A similar situation exists to day regarding Electropathy/Electro-homoeopthy.

Electropathy/Electro-homoeopathy medical There are over sixty institutes affiliated to N.E.H.M. of India, New Delhi, which are running four year B.E.M.S. course all over India. The qualified doctors in Electropathy/Electro-homoeopathy are doing their practice. When four recognised systems of medical science already exist in India. there is no reason why this new fifth system of medical science i.e. Electropathy/Electro-homoeopathy cannot be given recognition by the The medical science of electropathy enjoys the same Government. the other four systems of medical position as is being enjoyed by recognised by the Government science and as 'such it should also be treating it at par with other medical sciences in India. The Government should therefore, issue general instructions author'sing the N.E.H.M. research in Electhropathy/ of India for promotion, development and The report of the Expert Electro-homoeopathy System of medicine. Committee dated 27 August 1991 may also be implemented.

The Board of Naturo Electro Homoeopathy Medicos' of India may also be taken over by the Government for the promotion development and research of the Electropathy/Electro-homoeopathy medical science in India. Considering the large number of Electropathy doctors, institutions and their contribution towards the promotion and development of Electropathy-Electro-homoeopathy Medical Science, it is high time that this new medical science is given legal protection.

Hence this Bill.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

Article 309 of the Constitution provides that appropriate Leigslature may regulate the recruitment and conditions of service of persons appointed to public service and posts in connection with the affairs of the Union or of any State. In the case of services under the Central Government, recruitment and conditions of service of persons appointed to this service should have been regulated by an Act of Parliament which is the Central Legislature.

However, no such Act has been enacted by Parliament till now and the conditions of service of the members of the Central Secretariat Service are being regulated in accordance with the rules framed by the President of India under the proviso to Article 309 of the Constitution. It is apparent that this proviso was meant to empower the President to make rules or regulations only till the time a law is made by the Parliament.

But even after forty three years of coming into force of the Constitution, no such Act has been passed by the Parliament to regulate recruitment and conditions or service of members of Central Secretariat Service. Their recruitment and conditions of service are being governed by such rules as may be amended by the Government without seeking the approval of the Parliament. In the past, the rules have been amended time and again to the detriment of the members of the service. Since the officers at the top level do not belong to Central Secretariat Service, the interests of the members of the service are never taken into account at the time of amending the rules.

The present Bill seeks to rectify this position and attempts at giving succour to the members of the Central Secretariat Service.

New Delhi; March 7, 1993.

RAM PRAKASH CHAUDARY

FINANCIAL MEMORANDUM

Clause 5 of the Bill provides that all direct recruit Assistants who have worked for seven years as such shall be promoted to the post of Section Officer. Clause 7 provides that a Section Officer who has been confirmed shall be appointed as a Group 'A' Officer. Clause 8 provides that time bound promotion shall be given to all officers of Central Secretariat Service and in case it is not possible to give time bound promotion to such officers, they shall be paid salary and other allowances admissible for such higher post as if they were promoted to such higher post. Clause 9 provides that the total emoluments including the special pay of an officer belonging to Central Secretariat Service shall not be less than that of an officer belonging to any other Central Service or an All India Service. Clause 11 provides for facilities like pension, leave travel concession, terminal benefits, etc. to members of the Central Secretariat Service.

The Bill, therefore, if enacted will involve expenditure from the Consolidated Fund of India. It is likely to involve a recurring expenditure of about rupees thirty lakh per annum from the Consolidated Fund of India.

A non-recurring expenditure to the tune of rupees ten lakh is also likely to be involved.

MEMORANDUM REGARDING DEFEGATED LEGISLATION

Clause 11 of the Bill empowers the Central Government to make rules for carrying out the purposes of the Bill. Since the rules will relate to matters of detail only, the delegation of legislative power is of a normal character.
